These records may be electronic, a paper record or a mixture of both. We use a combination of technologies and working practices to ensure that we keep your information secure and confidential.

Why do we collect this information?

The NHS Act 2006 and the Health and Social Care Act 2012 invests statutory functions on GP Practices to promote and provide the health service in England, improve quality of services, reduce inequalities, conduct research, review performance of services and deliver education and training.

To do this we will need to process your information in accordance with current data protection legislation to:

- Perform tasks in the public's interest.
- Deliver preventative medicine, medical diagnosis and medical research.
- Manage the health and social care system and services.

To ensure that you receive the best possible care, your records will be used to facilitate the care you receive. Information held about you may be used to protect the health of the public and to help us manage the NHS. Information may also be used for clinical audit to monitor the quality of the service provided.

In addition, your information will be used to identify whether you are at risk of a future unplanned hospital admission and or require support to effectively manage a long term condition.

How is the information collected?

Your information will be collected either electronically using secure NHS Mail or a secure electronic transfer over an NHS encrypted network connection.

In addition physical information will be sent to your practice. This information will be retained within your electronic patient record or within your physical medical records.

Information is not held for longer than is necessary.

We will hold your information in accordance with the Records Management Code of Practice for Health and Social Care 2016.

Consent and Objections

Do I need to give my consent?

General Data Protection Regulations set a high standard for consent. Consent means offering people genuine choice and control over how their data is used. When consent is used properly, it helps you build trust and enhance your reputation.

However consent is only one potential lawful basis for processing information. Therefore we may not need to seek your explicit consent for every instance of processing and sharing your information, on the condition that the processing is carried out in accordance with this notice.

Your GP Practice will contact you if they are required to share your information for any other purpose which is not mentioned within this notice. If so, your consent will be documented within your electronic patient record.

What will happen if I withhold my consent or raise an objection?

You have the right to write to withdraw your consent at any time for any particular instance of processing, provided consent is the legal basis for the processing. Please contact the Practice for further information and to raise your objection.

Health Risk Screening / Risk Stratification

Health Risk Screening or Risk Stratification is a process that helps your GP to determine whether you are at risk of an unplanned admission or deterioration in health.

By using selected information such as age, gender, NHS number, diagnosis, existing long term condition(s), medication history, patterns of hospital attendances, admissions and periods of access to community care your GP will be able to judge if you are likely to need more support and care from time to time, or if the right services are in place to support the local population's needs.

In summary Risk Stratification is used in the NHS to:

- Help decide if a patient is at a greater risk of suffering from a particular condition.
- Prevent an emergency admission.
- Identify if a patient needs medical help to prevent a health condition from getting worse.
- Review and amend provision of current health and social care services.

We will use computer based algorithms or calculations to identify their registered patients who are at most risk, with support from the local Commissioning Support Unit (CSU) and or a third party accredited Risk Stratification provider.

Any risk stratification contracts would be arranged by NHS South Norfolk Clinical Commissioning Group and or NHS England in accordance with a Section 251 Agreement.

Neither the CSU nor South Norfolk CCG will at any time have access to your personal or confidential data. They will only act on behalf of us to organise the risk stratification service with appropriate contractual, technical and security measures in place.

We will routinely conduct the risk stratification process outside of any appointment with us. This process is conducted electronically and without human intervention. The resulting report is then reviewed by a multidisciplinary team of staff within the Practice. This may result in contact being made with you if alterations to the provision of your care are identified.

A Section 251 Agreement is where the Secretary of State for Health and Social Care has granted permission for personal data to be used for the purposes of risk stratification, in acknowledgement that it would overburden the NHS to conduct manual reviews of all patient registers held by individual providers.

As mentioned above, you have the right to object to your information being used in this way. However you should be aware that your objection may have a negative impact on the timely and proactive provision of your direct care. Please contact the Managing Partner Manager to discuss how disclosure of your personal data can be limited.

Sharing of Electronic Patient Records within the NHS

Electronic patient records are kept in most places where you receive healthcare. Our Practice computer system enables your record to be shared with organisations involved in your direct care, such as.

- Other GP practices.
- Community services such as district nurses, rehabilitation services, telehealth and out of hospital services.
- Child health services that undertake routine treatment or health screening.
- Urgent care organisations, minor injury units or out of hours services.
- Community hospitals.
- Palliative care hospitals.
- Care Homes.
- Mental Health Trusts.
- Hospitals.

- Social Care organisations.
- Pharmacies.

In addition, NHS England have implemented the Summary Care Record. This health extract contains information about medication you are taking, allergies you suffer from and any adverse reactions to medication that you have had in the past.

Your electronic health record contains a lot of information about you. In most cases, particularly for patients with complex conditions and care arrangements, the shared record plays a vital role in delivering the best care and a coordinated response, taking into account all aspects of a person's physical and mental health. Many patients are understandably not able to provide a full account of their care, or may not be in a position to do so. The shared record means patients do not have to repeat their medical history at every care setting.

Your record will be automatically set up to be shared with the organisations listed above, however you have the right to ask us to disable this function or restrict access to specific elements of your record. This will mean that the information recorded by us will not be visible at any other care setting. You may well have done this at point of registration.

You can also reinstate your consent at any time by giving your permission to override your previous dissent.

Invoice Validation

If you have received treatment within the NHS, the local Commissioning Support Unit (CSU) may require access to your personal information to determine which Clinical Commissioning Group is responsible for payment for the treatment or procedures you have received.

Information such as your name, address, date of treatment and associated treatment code may be passed onto the CSU to enable them to process the bill. These details are held in a secure environment and kept confidential. This information is only used to validate invoices in accordance with the current Section 251 Agreement, and will not be shared for any further commissioning purposes.

Your Right of Access to Your Records

Data Protection Legislation allows you to find out what information is held about you including information held within your medical records, either in electronic or physical format.

This is known as the 'right of subject access'. If you would like to have access to all or part of your records, you can make a request in writing to us.

You should be aware that some details within your health records may be exempt from disclosure, however this will be in the interests of your wellbeing or to protect the identity of a third party. If you would like access to your record please submit your request in writing to the address at the foot of this notice. We have a form available to help you make this request.

Complaints

In the event that you feel we have not complied with the current data protection legislation, either in responding to your request or in our general processing of your personal information, you should raise your concerns in the first instance in writing to the Managing Partner at the Practice address below.

If you remain dissatisfied with our response you can contact the Information Commissioner's Office at Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire SK9 5AF – Enquiry Line: 0303 123 1113 or online at www.ico.org.uk
